1st: Ridgway's Zoldmali Hunter Saman (Imp) preferred the overall proportions and robust build of this one. A moderate rounded skull and broad with a moderate stop. Head needs to break as a little coarse at this early age. Straight front with good bone and feet. I'd like a slightly better return of upper arm. Good topline and strong loin. Correct set tail. Moved well enough both ways.

2nd: Swann's Zoltarous Wasabi For Dhalascar. A nice head and expression with good eye and well set ear, with lots of work in it, good length to the leather. Good neck and into straight front and plenty of bone and feet. A little shorter in loin and thus not quite the same proportions. Moderate rear and moved out. However was enjoying using their tail too much.

1st: Byrne's Aldofovolyi - Drotos Nyuzsgo At Enryb JW. A pleasing feminine head and expression with a kind eye and correct board rounded skull, well set ear. Plenty of substance to her, with a well sprung rib and well back. Good depth of brisket. Moderate rear construction, and showed on the move really driving off with some purpose. Like a little tighter at the elbow coming towards you. Some tight coat with a good colour and harsh texture.

1st: Cooper's Deifstock Dare To Dream. A feminine head and expression with a soft kind eye. Good straight front with plenty of bone and oval foot. Good topline and well sprung rib, moderate rear with well let down hock. Moved well both ways for her age. A super tight coat and harsh texture and correct pigmentation. Flowed well through the neck and shoulder and topline.

1st: Nokes' Trebus Tanselle At Goldpaw. I'd a little more substance all through with this one. A lighter type. A good depth of brisket to the elbow and well sprung rib. Would have liked a little more breath to her rump. Good coat and harsh texture.

LB (1)

1st: Nokes' Goldpaw Five To Midnight. Liked her type a little more substance and robustness. Good body proportions and depth of brisket to elbow. Level topline and correct tailset. Would have liked a little more bend of stifle and let down of hock. Super coat and texture with good colour and pigmentation.

1st: Loynd's Sh Ch Enryb Tickled Pink JW. I preferred the overall balance, make and shape. Feminine head with a kind eye and soft expression. Well set ear off and broad, rounded skull. Good length of leather. Moderate neck with slight arch. Flowing into a level topline supported by a good depth of brisket to the elbow and a well sprung rib, well back. Moved well covering the ground well. Coat slightly on the blow. Good colour and pigment.

2nd: Upton's Stockgrove Pumpkin To Tragus. Another balanced feminine girl. With a pleasing head and soft well set oval eye. Clean neck and good depth of brisket and lay of shoulder, well ribbed back with spring of rib. Not quite the movement of

1st. Lacked some drive and could be tighter in elbow.
